

BRAMPTON GUARDIAN

The 70s is here

The Brampton Guardian
July 26, 2010

Step back a few decades with a Remember-the-70's ? music by the Brampton Concert Band. The band will churn out iconic music from the decade at the Investor's Group Thursday Night Concert Series, taking place July 29 at 7 p.m. The idea for the themed concert came about after band members felt music from the 70's was often overlooked and dismissed and needed some attention. So, they dug around their vaults to unearth some great tunes which they plan to mix-up with pertinent historical nuggets so that the audience can muse about the bygone days.

The evening air will stir with many familiar tunes including pop classics, Hollywood movie music, themes from television series such as Happy Days and Welcome Back Kotter as well as few Broadway blockbusters. In addition, the popular concert band, will mix things up by playing a tea commercial based around the piece called "The Homecoming" by Brantford composer Hagood Hardy.

For more information on the Brampton Concert Band's summer season, visit: www.bramptonconcertband.com.

The forgotten era. The Brampton Concert Band is recreating the magic of the 70s at the Investor's Group Thursday Night Concert Series, taking place July 29 at 7 p.m. Photo by Bryon Johnson

This article is for personal use only courtesy of BramptonGuardian.com - a division of Metroland Media Group Ltd.
